New Try Made for A-Test Ban

Kennedy, Macmillan Ease Demands for On-Site Inspection

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan offered today a new "first step" on banning nuclear tests which would drop insistence on on-site inspection of testing in the atmosphere, underwater and in outer space.

The new proposals, therefore, would mean calling a halt to all tests except those conducted underground.

The American-British position was that it was necessary, however, to provide inspection of whether underground nuclear tests were being conducted.

The proposals were put today before the 17-nation Disarmament Conference in Geneva, by chief American negotiator Arthur H. Dan.

First Soviet reaction was described by Western conference sources as cool but still not rejecting outright the proposed Anglo-American draft treaty.

Kennedy and Macmillan, in fact, put forth two proposals.

They expressed a strong preference for an all-inclusive ban on nuclear testing in all environments—but with inspection provisions.

In view of Soviet refusal to go along with inspection on grounds it would open Russia to espionage the two Western leaders offered the limited alternative to halt all tests except those underground.

The move drew both praise and harsh criticism from some members of Congress.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., hailed it as "the most feasible and realistic" yet advanced in the Geneva conferences. He was joined by Sen. Frank Church.

However, another leading Democrat, Sen. Strom Thurmond, S.C., called the offer for an untested ban "ridiculous and unrealistic."

Kennedy and the prime minister instructed their representatives at the Geneva Disarmament Conference of 17 nations to submit two draft treaties today — the all-inclusive ban and an alternative treaty to prohibit all tests except those underground.

Reds Blast Is Detected

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI) — Swedish scientists today detected a powerful Soviet nuclear blast estimated to have had an explosive force of from 14 to 15 million tons of TNT.

The explosion was the seventh known to have been detected by Western monitors since the new Soviet series began at the Arctic testing grounds of Novaya Zemlya earlier this month.

The Russians set off their fifth and sixth blasts Saturday in the 9 to 11 megaton (millions of tons of TNT) range.

U.S. Scientists Shoot Venus Probe Capsule

OPTIMISTIC EXPRESSIONS predominate the line-up of top Democrat state election leaders in Sacramento Sunday following the party's Central Committee meeting. The state-wide office seekers, from left, include Alan Cranston, state controller; Don Rose, secretary of state nominee; Gov. Brown; Sen. Engle; Glenn Anderson, lieutenant governor; Bert Betts, state treasurer; and Stanley Mosk, attorney general.

130-Ton Rocket Hurls Tube at Nearest Planet

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — U.S. scientists Sunday shot a gold and silver-plated instrument package toward Venus, and said it may reach to within 100,000 miles of the "mystery planet."

The 447-pound space probe, named Mariner-2, was hurled free of earth's gravitational pull by a 130-ton Atlas-Agena rocket launched at 11:53 p.m. PDT Sunday.

Mariner-2 is a mechanical explorer which, at the end of its 181 million-mile voyage, may help scientists determine whether life could exist on Venus, Earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Federal space agency scientists said Mariner-2 will reach to within 600,000 miles of Venus. But the spacecraft carried a special "mid-course guidance" rocket which could sharpen the accuracy considerably.

Scientists plan to fire the mid-course rocket about eight days from now, and there is a chance it will swing Mariner-2 around so it will reach within 100,000 miles of the cloud-covered surface of Venus.

An early small but significant guidance error—possibly caused by a slight waver in the 10-story booster rocket during lift-off—dimmed the hopes that scientists had of putting Mariner-2 to within 10,000 to 36,000 miles of the planet.

But it still ranks as one of the most spectacular successes in U.S. space exploration. The closest that any American probe had ever approached a planet previously was 8 million miles—the distance that Pioneer-3 came to Venus after it was launched in March, 1960.

Scientists cautioned "we still have a long way to go," but said "the mid-course guidance should make a big difference. We are extremely pleased by this shot so far."

Jack James, project director, said radio information indicated the $18.5 million Mariner-2 itself was performing, but that "we still have a long way to go."

Red China In Nuclear Club Soon?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Communist China probably will be in a position to detonate its first nuclear explosion "within a matter of months," a senior official of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency said today.

The official, who declined use of his name, stressed that this would still be a very long way from China's developing nuclear weapons. This would take a matter of years, he said.

The possibility of nuclear testing by Red China was described to newsmen as one example of why the United States wants Russia to sign a limited nuclear test ban treaty if a full treaty cannot be negotiated.

The "alternate" treaty proposed by the United States and Britain today, which would ban all but underground tests, contains a clause in which nuclear powers would pledge not to help other countries develop nuclear weapons.

The official said it was hoped this would dissuade Russia from giving China technical help, without which she could not develop a weapons system for many years.

It has long been known that Red China has been doing scientific nuclear research with the aid of the Soviets.

Red Supply To Cuba Is U.S. Worry

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cuba's big build-up of Soviet bloc military technicians and equipment is being accompanied by daily charges that planes from the United States Naval Base at Guantanamo are "violating" Cuban air space and territorial waters.

What the relationship between these two developments may be — if any — remains uncertain. But American officials are known to be concerned, particularly since the Soviet-supplied equipment may include surface-to-air missiles.

Installation of such equipment around Guantanamo, for example, could dangerously increase Cuban American tensions over the huge naval installation which Premier Fidel Castro hopes some day to control, political sources said.

For the past two months Cuba's Armed Forces Ministry has been issuing daily communiques in which American planes, ships and submarines are accused of "violating" Cuban territory.

The most recent of these charges, issued Sunday, said a U.S. plane flew over several towns in Matanzas Province during a 28-minute sweep over Cuba just after midnight Friday morning. The Castroite communique did not explain how the plane's national origin was determined.

State Demos Get Big Lift From JFK

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California Democrats, bolstered by a personal message from President John F. Kennedy and armed with a platform promising no new taxes in the next four years, were ready today to face the Nov. 6 general election campaign.

But their 1962 Central Committee meeting ended Sunday night in a major split over a resolution denouncing members of the John Birch Society and the Communist Party—and asking that they be expelled from the party, if possible.

Kennedy told the Democrats: "California has a clear choice between those who recognize and wish to solve the problems of our time and those of the opposition party who believe that the political domas of the past can be applied without change to the present."

Later in the day, Joseph Martin Jr., Republican National Committeeman, issued a statement chiding the President for "praising" remarks.

Kennedy Slated To Campaign U.S. Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., keynoting the Central Committee session, predicted that Kennedy would come to California in October to campaign for the Democratic ticket.

Ammunition Fired Early

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A California Democratic assemblyman charged Sunday that Republican gubernatorial nominee Richard Nixon is setting the stage for another "Checkers" case in connection with a reported $205,000 loan made to the former vice president's mother by a Texas tool company.

Assemblyman Jerome Waldie, D-Antioch, charged before the Democratic State Central Committee that "Richard Nixon is deliberately laying the foundation for another Checkers defense case, this time with his mother as exhibit A."

Nixon did not reply directly to Waldie but the GOP gubernatorial nominee's press secretary Herb Klein said:

"This proves the rumors of a dirty campaign by Mr. Brown and his henchmen regrettably are true. This incredible six-year-old smear marks a new low in the start of the California campaign. In 1960 President Kennedy refused to attempt to capitalize on the financial misfortune of Mr. Nixon's mother and brother. But Mr. Brown evidently has no such scruples."

Rehash of Desert Inn Plans Still Hang Fire

The Palm Springs City Council will dig into a three-plus page agenda at 8 p.m. today, probably minus reconsideration of the Desert Inn project proposal.

"We haven't heard anything from George Alexander on it," Mayor Frank M. Bogert reported today.

The council will hear a letter from Alexander and his Desert Inn partner Samuel Firkis withdrawing the proposed offer of dedication of a strip of the Belardo Road extension through the Desert Inn site.

The council has prepared to reconsider the action taken Aug. 13 when it approved by a 3-2 vote a planning commission recommendation for the site which was deemed unacceptable by Firkis and Robert Alexander, Palm Springs manager of the Alexander Construction Co., and son of the firm's president.

The council will receive the city administration's recommendations on salary adjustments and

TO SOLVE MAIL ROBBERY

U.S. Offers $50,000 Reward

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General J. Edward Day today offered a $50,000 reward, largest in postal history, for the solving of the recent mail robbery in Massachusetts.

Day informed a House investigating subcommittee that in boosting the reward money from $2,000 to $50,000, he was offering the entire amount given his department for annual rewards.

The biggest reward ever paid previously by the postal service was $25,000 for what was described as "confidential information."

The postmaster general told the House investigators he has ordered immediate changes to prevent similar postal robberies. But he noted that the handling of the money involved in the Aug. 14 Plymouth, Mass., hold up was "unique."

Day denied any laxity on the part of his department and expressed confidence the robbery would be solved, even though it may take some time.

Biggest U.S. Haul

The armed hold up of the mail truck which was carrying money from Cape Cod was the most lucrative cash robbery in U.S.

crime history. The loot exceeded even the $1,219,000 Brinks holdup in Boston in 1950.

Day expressed doubt that an armed police escort could have prevented the Aug. 14 robbery, which police are convinced was perpetrated by a professional gang. Day observed that past experience shows that "large amounts of security" have not deterred such gangs.

Subcommittee Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., suggested the department arm its guards with "Handy Andy" sawed off shotguns.

He said the 38 caliber pistols

New York Stocks at Closing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks ended a session of narrow ups and downs showing little change in the averages today.

As a section rails made about the best showing with many issues climbing good fractions after an ICC examiner approved the consolidation plans of the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line Railroads, boding well for the merger-minded industry.

Steels showed only minor reaction to a small industry production decline last week. Motors and international oils were about even in most cases and chemicals mixed featuring Du Pont among the losers and Dow among the gainers.

Texas Instruments carved out a 3 point gain toward the close and held it while many other glamor issues slipped back to around their starting points. Polaroid remained ahead around 4 on reports it will have color film for land cameras marketed in time for Christmas but Crown Cork skidded 2%.

Four Area Weekend Collisions

INDIO — Four persons received major injuries and two persons were injured slightly in four weekend traffic collisions, the California Highway Patrol announced today.

John Moreno, 18, Thermal, and Howard Seaman, 21, Los Angeles, are in Casita Hospital today with major injuries received in a 9:15 p.m. crash Sunday at the intersection of Highway 99 and Avenue 66 near Thermal.

Moreno, eastbound on Avenue 66, apparently drove in front of a car driven north on Highway 99 by Ronald Antonio Alziebler, 21, of Downey. CHP investigators said Alziebler's car was pulling a boat. Seaman was a passenger in the Alziebler car.

Two-Car Collision
Dominic Porto, 68, of 67-753 Second Street, Tramview, received minor injuries at 9 p.m. Sunday when his vehicle was in collision with a car driven by Julian V. Delatorre, 36, of 4373 Camino Parocela, Palm Springs, collided on Date Palm Drive 3500 feet north of Highway 111.

Porto had pulled onto the road from a private drive just before the crash, CHP officers were told. A third vehicle — legally parked at the roadside — reportedly at the scene at the time of the crash, officers were told. Delatorre was apprehended on charges of driving under the influence of alcohol, the CHP reported.

Two Arizona residents received major injuries at 10 a.m. Sunday after a car driven by John Philip Arthur, 21, of Mesa, Ariz., went out of control after the right front tire blew out, officers said.

Blowout on 99
Arthur was tossed from the car after the blowout on Highway 99 1.1 mile west of Washington Avenue. A passenger in the car, Sandra N. LaFriede, 17, of Tempe, Ariz., received major injuries when the vehicle overturned. Joseph A. Benko, 14, of Torrance, suffered minor injuries.

Barbara Walters, 20, Post Office box 1122 Palm Desert, was taken to Casita Hospital with minor injuries received in a 12:05 p.m. Saturday collision on Highway 111 at Larkspur Lane, Palm Desert.

A car driven by J. D. Hardison, 48, of 44-890 Jackson Street, Indio, struck the rear of a car driven by Michael A. Walters, Palm Desert, when Walters slowed for a left turn, CHP investigators reported.

Spa Police On Palm Tree Trail

Palm Springs Police today are seeking roving baby palm trees and clues in a rash of weekend burglaries of soft-drink vending machines.

Officers are seeking two potted palms, valued at $36, which were taken from the Tennis Club apparently over the weekend.

The vending machine investigations started at 7:28 a.m. today when Clarence Judd, 900 N. Palm Canyon Drive, reported $2 in nickels and dimes had apparently been taken from a vending machine at his location.

Other burglaries reported early today included vending machines at Brand Ford Motors, the North End Shell station, the Culinary Workers union office, and the Mobil station at North Palm Canyon Drive and Vista China.

Finkbines In Return to U.S., Relieved

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind. (UPI) — Mrs. Sherri Finkbine, 30, has returned to the United States, tired but full of confidence "my friends will understand" why she underwent an abortion in Sweden.

The Phoenix television personality and her school teacher husband, Robert, landed in Chicago after a flight from London Sunday. Following a brief meeting with newsmen the couple flew to Cincinnati, Ohio, Sunday night.

The Finkbines flew to Sweden and obtained permission from the Swedish State Medical Board for a lawful abortion on the ground that her pregnancy might cause a mental breakdown.

Mrs. Finkbine had sought unsuccessfully in Arizona to obtain a legal abortion after she learned that the drug Thallidomide, which she had taken during the early stages of pregnancy, was blamed for the birth of deformed infants in Europe.

Following the operation in Sweden, Mrs. Finkbine's husband announced that medical evidence showed her child would have been deformed.

5,000 HUNGRY MOUTHS

Mountains of Food Needed for Marines

TWENTYNINE PALMS — An army travels on its stomach and an army of hungry marines are no exception to this rule.

At the world's largest Marine Corps Base, 29 Palms, consisting of 995 square miles, 5,000 additional mouths will have to be fed during "Operation Tiger," this year's marine reserve air ground exercise. The exercises, which began Aug. 16, continue through Sept. 4.

Residing in Camp Wilson, "Tent City", the reserves, who have poured in for the largest west coast reserve exercise, are being fed in style by over 150 personnel from the different units aboard this Hi-Desert Marine Base.

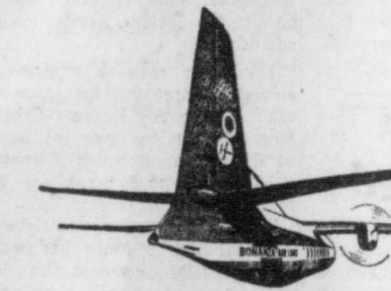

Gunnery Sgt. Talbert Erwin of the 1st 155mm gun battery, first field artillery group, is in charge of feeding all the men of the different reserve units. For the two weeks that the reserve marines stay on the hi-desert, three meals a day will be given at the 10 mess halls erected especially for the participants of "Tiger."

A typical noon meal will consist of the following foods and amounts that will be prepared and served each day: pork chops, 2,000 pounds; mashed potatoes, 1,400 pounds; creamed style corn, 20 cases; plain cake, 500 pounds; and assorted salads will be made from 1,000 pounds of green vegetables daily.

To wash down all this good food, 1,000 gallons of cold beverages will be served in addition to 500 gallons of chilled milk and 300 gallons of coffee at each meal.

This will continue all during "Operation Tiger." Come the end of the operation, the cooks and messmen will get a vacation, that is return to their daily feeding of only the regular troops stationed here at 29 Palms.

Palm Springs Hostess Entertains with Gaiety, Informality

Her Recipes
Easy but Interesting

By LEE CHRISTOPHER

When they gave Corinne Smith the choice between Forest Lawn and the desert, she chose Palm Springs.

It wasn't such an easy choice at that. True, she was critically asthmatic with an unfavorable prognosis — but, on the other hand, she and her husband were wildly enthusiastic about their Mill Creek Farms near Corona, where they raised thoroughbreds and Irish setters, and it would be impossible to work with their beloved animals in the desert.

But on still another hand, the doctors said Corinne was possibly allergic to horses and dogs. So the choice was made reluctantly.

The Smiths had been coming to Palm Springs during the season for years and had hosts of friends here. And suddenly, back again in the midst of those friends, Corinne found something she had not even known she was missing on the farms — gangs of people immediately at hand to entertain at all hours of the day and night.

So she took up a new career—Hostess par Excellence. And when Corinne Smith says she LOVES to entertain, it is the understatement of major proportions.

There are many facets to this laughing and extremely sophisticated woman. That side of her which reflects her pleasure in entertaining will be dealt with later; of more immediate interest is the Mrs. Rex Smith well known in the desert for her philanthropic activities.

LIGHTING UP OLD SMOKEY is Mrs. Rex Smith, who finds the unique barbecue a magic help when entertaining a guest list that can be anywhere from 4 to 40.

Currently, her primary interest is the Angel View Crippled Children's Foundation, with which she has been associated ever since silky-haired dog dead—poisoned. Even in her very real grief she thought of other well-loved pets, and so she sent this announcement to her friends:

Corinne Biddle Smith announces with regret the untimely death of her beloved Irish Setter, Hubba Hubba, in his twentieth year. Donations may be made in his memory to the Humane Society of Palm Springs, Inc., Post Office Box 128, Palm Springs.

Memorial funds literally poured in to the society, Mrs. Smith reports, helping greatly toward the goal of a cemetery for other such cherished pets.

Thoroughbred Farms
Some day, Corinne Smith declares, they will go back to their life as breeders of fine horses and dogs — for this is her first and great love, and perhaps, the most important facet of her personality.

For 14 years, while she and her husband had two night clubs in Los Angeles, they bred thoroughbreds as a consuming hobby. Their Mill Creek Farms, scene of their activities, was alive with aleck racing horses running freely across green pastures, or nodding, soft-eyed, over white wooden fences.

"Nothing is so beautiful," she believes.

They have kept a few of their thoroughbreds, now stabled at Del Mar, including Sissykins — a direct descendant of the great Man o' War — who won the handicap at Mexico City in 1960. But there has been no racing, now, for almost two years, and Corinne longs for a return to the days when their Inconstant won the California Breeders Stakes, and their Valdina Andre came in fourth in the Hollywood Gold Cup—an unusual feat for a two-year-old.

There'll Come a Day
Planning for the day when her asthma will release her from the desert, Mrs. Smith has kept her membership in the California Thoroughbred Breeders Association and in the American Kennel Club, for she is equally enthusiastic about championship dogs.

On Mill Creek Farms, there were often as many as 29 Irish Setters at one time — and not one was ever sold. Instead, in a typical Corinne Smith gesture, the puppies were given to children who would never have been able to afford a pure-bred dog.

She Swims, Too
Still another side of this interesting woman is her swimming ability — a champion at anything from 20 yards to three miles. For 11 years, she competed in the Senior National Long Distance Swimming Championships sponsored by the AAU at Atlantic City — and was a winner many times.

ty — a champion at anything from 20 yards to three miles. For 11 years, she competed in the Senior National Long Distance Swimming Championships sponsored by the AAU at Atlantic City — and was a winner many times.

Nowadays, confined to the length of Palm Springs pools, she doesn't do any distance swimming, but she sports a beautiful tan and, except for public appearances, spends most of her days and evenings in a swimming suit—a perfect foil for her lithe, slender figure.

"I eat like a horse," she confesses — and she never gains an ounce. Here she is lucky, for Mrs. Smith not only likes to feed her guests well, but she also likes to eat extremely well herself.

And Cooks Delightfully
So at last we come to Corinne Smith and her "company" recipes.

Currently, the Smiths operate the Desert Safari Hotel on South Palm Canyon Drive. Go by any night around 7 o'clock and peek into the lobby or the patio around the pool. You'll see anywhere from three to 40 people eating, and eating, and eating. These are not paid diners. They are friends come by for a snack.

"Cooking is about 50 per cent fast-minutes with sauce in pan. Re-er, and with the lid on tight, move to hot platter and cover that charcoal smoke permeates the meat for a heavenly flavor. It's a sort of charcoal-powered Dutch oven."

But not all of her cooking is done on Old Smokey. Take, for instance, this barbecued fried chicken, which is the most favored of all her "company" recipes.

Barbecued Fried Chicken

3½ lb. fryer, cut into pieces for serving
4 Tbs. salad oil
2 Tbs. Worcestershire Sauce
1 Tbs. vinegar
1 Tbs. A-1 Sauce
1 Tbs. sugar
¼ cup catsup
Dash of Tabasco Sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
Heat salad oil in a skillet and brown chicken on all sides. Remove to shallow baking pan. Mix all other ingredients and pour over chicken. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour, basting every 10 or 15 bows.

Eggplant Roma
Slice small, unpeeled eggplants into ¼-inch slices. Dip in egg batter and saute very quickly in butter until golden brown. Now in a large casserole, re-create the individual eggplants by alternating the sauted slices with slices of sharp cheddar cheese (going from the largest slices on to the bottom to the smallest on top).
In a separate pan, heat a small can of tomato sauce with ½ large onion which has been finely minced and salt and pepper to taste. Pour over the eggplants. Bake uncovered in a 350-degree oven for about one-half hour. Take your lamb.

Light Salad Adds Oriental Touch to Summer Luncheon

Summer's the salad season, the time for light, bright foods, crisp textures, and cool flavors.

Here's a jaunty green salad with accents of red and white tossed together to meet all three tastes. A can of mixed chinese vegetables, containing bean sprouts, water chestnuts, bamboo shoots, mushrooms, and sweet red peppers is blended with torn lettuce, watercress, young spinach leaves, and romaine for a delicate Oriental taste.

Top the salad off with a tasty

Try These Yummy Ginger Cookies

Iron-rich dark molasses, a good source of quick energy, is ideal for making these ginger cookies. This is the way it is done:

Cream together 1 cup shortening and 1 cup sugar; add 1 egg; beat well. Add 2 cups dark molasses and 2 tablespoons cider vinegar. Sift together 7 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons ginger, 1½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 4 teaspoons baking soda, and 1 teaspoon salt. Add to the creamed mixture. Add 1 cup boiling water; mix well. If necessary add more flour to make a soft dough.

Drop by teaspoons on greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes. Costs approximately 79 cents for 8 dozen cookies.

Add Protein To Deviled Egg

Add protein to deviled eggs for picnics by mixing deviled ham into the yolks. Halve 6 hardcooked eggs. Remove yolks, mash them and blend with 1 (4¼ ounce) can of deviled ham, 1 tablespoon each of mayonnaise and sweet pickle relish, and restuff egg whites. Garnish with strips of green pepper, pimiento and stuffed olives.

Save Us from Ourselves

It's beginning to look as if nobody believes that we consumers have sense enough to take care of ourselves in the goodies-jungle of the neighborhood grocery.

There's Pat Brown, who has a Consumer Counsel out touring the hustings telling us how we need her guardianship against scheming packagers. There's President Kennedy, who is seeking a similar White Knight or Lady on the federal level, to shelter us from our idiocy. And now, heaven forbid, the AFL-CIO is out to save us!

Seems the union doesn't like the "confusing array of packages lining supermarket aisles." It thinks we should have federal standardization of packages, labels, sizes, and so on. And it advises us, in its American Federationist magazine, to shop "as infrequently as possible" in order to avoid the temptations of impulse buying.

What a dreary world of sub-intellectual conformity these self-appointed champions of the feeble minded consumer would have us live in! Reminds us of the old jingle: "See the happy moron; doesn't give a damn. Wish I was a moron; my gosh, perhaps I am!"

Other Editors

Death notices in a large metropolitan newspaper are cold reading brief entries that are little more than statistics for the record. But those tight columns of small print listing the day's departed in disinterested alphabetical order offer the reader what must often be the final contact between himself and someone he knew once long ago, or hadn't kept up with since he moved, or whose parents or children were friends. He can visit or write, of course, to show his interest, but our tradition makes grief, like death, a private thing, and we decline to make undue inquiries.

Prof. Dudley Stamp altered this pattern in the notice of his wife's death inserted in the London Times. It read:

"Stamp—At sunset on the cliffs of Wide-mouth in the driving seat of her Humber Snipe, a cigarette half-smoked, the Times crossword puzzle nearly completed, Elsa, for 39 years beloved wife and companion of Prof. L. Dudley Stamp. No mourning, please."

"We had a wonderful life together," he later explained. But she had a heart attack five years ago, and although she recovered "we both knew the end might come any time." She had often prayed, he said, that the end be quick and that she die first.

Of the unusual notice he said "I wanted all her friends to know just how easily, quickly, and simply she went. I think she would have approved." So do we.

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

Probes Bring Both Shame and Pride

WASHINGTON — From one viewpoint an American might feel ashamed to have the world watching the simultaneous Senate investigations of George M. Humphrey and Billie Sol Estes — yet from another viewpoint an American might feel pride.

Humphrey is a former Secretary of Treasury who made a lot of money through stock ownership in the M. A. Hanna Company which sold nickel to the U.S. Government at huge profits during the Korean War rearmament.

Estes is a grain speculator who made — and lost — a lot of money by playing fast and loose with Government regulations in the Agriculture Department, probably with the connivance of Federal officials.

Both men enriched themselves because the Government was trying to stockpile minerals and food, and because the contact between free enterprise producers and Government purchasers lend itself to profiteering.

System Seems Wrong
Humphrey seems to be well within his legal rights, Estes is under several indictments for fraud. Regardless of what happens to these men, there is something very wrong with a system which permits large sums of money to move from the pockets of the taxpayers into the pockets of clever and greedy citizens.

There is another phase of these investigations — the political phase. Humphrey is a Republican, a top member of the Administration that served under Dwight Eisenhower. It is always to the advantage of the Democratic party to make Republicans look bad, and there's no doubt that Democratic campaign orators will use the Humphrey case to malign Ike and the GOP.

Estes seems to have taken his favors where he found them, regardless of party, but he is rated as a Texas Democrat, and the Republicans are trying hard to tie these scandals to the Kennedy Administration and to individual Democrats. There is something wrong with this phase, too, because the conservative principles of the Republican party are not exemplified in Humphrey's business practices, and the liberal principles of the Democratic party are not exemplified in the manipulations of Estes.

Integrity On Display
There is no way that an American could avoid feeling shame if a foreign observer were to point out the faults of capitalism and of American politics as shown in these two Senate probes.

Yes, but a lot of integrity is on display at these two hearings. My guess is that Senator Symington has often wished it hadn't fallen to his lot to be Chairman of the Stockpile Subcommittee. He is a former businessman himself, and he does not enjoy making Business look bad. Sitting in judgment upon Eisenhower and Humphrey, he is like a magistrate before whom two friends have been summoned for trial and upon whom he cannot escape passing sentence.

On Monday of the week that Humphrey was scheduled to appear, the local newspaper carried a story that Symington was going to the hospital for a hernia operation. The Senator could well have ducked the Humphrey hearing, but he didn't. The two men came face to face across the table in the famous Caucus Room, Humphrey shaky and irritable, Symington, I thought, sorrowful but unbending as he threw the witness to the merciless questioning of the staff counsel and the unsympathetic Democrats of the subcommittee. Before the thing ended Symington was gaveling Humphrey into silence and shouting, "Don't ever dare tell a United States Senator what he would dare or wouldn't dare!"

Election-Year Probes
In the Estes hearing, Chairman McClellan is presiding at hearings which have already embarrassed fellow Democrats with whom he is in daily association. He would give a lot, I'm sure, if the names of fellow Democrats like Senator Ralph Yarborough and Vice President Johnson could be kept out of the public testimony. There are Senate investigators, like Senator Kefauver, who have infuriated their colleagues by making these embarrassing, election-year, name-calling probes, and who have seemed to be callous about injuring reputations without due cause. But when you see McClellan conducting an investigation to the detriment of his party and political associations, you are seeing the slow, careful, remorseless action of the American political system at the work of correcting its own faults and exposure.

Here, then, is a matter for pride. The only thing worse than having these faults in Government — business relationships would be to deny, ignore and to hide their existence. Instead of that, the Government of the United States bares its own sins, and stubbornly moves for self-improvement.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN:

Dear Abby . . .

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a man who is old enough to be my father, but who has shown more than a fatherly interest in me. Besides, he is married. I am a waitress and he is my boss. When I started to work here he gave me some very good advice on how to handle myself, and I appreciated it. I noticed later that every chance he had to talk to me he got on the subject of "sex." I always changed the subject, but he managed to get back on it again. He even asked me some VERY personal questions about myself, which I answered truthfully because I AM a nice girl and didn't see any reason to hide it. I am getting uncomfortable around him because he gets on the sex subject all the time. Do you think he has evil intentions? How should I guide myself?

A NICE GIRL
DEAR NICE GIRL: Guide yourself OUT the door and find another job. A man knows his chances are good as long as he can get a girl to talk or think about sex. (and his chances keep improving if she doesn't get him off it). Take a big tip from me and quit while you're ahead.

DEAR ABBY: My future husband and I were making plans the other night and want to know what you think. We are both horse crazy and so are most of our friends. Even my mother is a good Western rider. We can't afford a big church wedding, so what do you think about getting married on horseback? We could have Western music. My fiancé said as much as he likes the horseback idea he kind of wanted to have me married in a gown, but you can't very well combine the two, can you? I don't suppose many people have heard about a wedding of this kind, but we know people who have done it and it worked out fine.

HORSE CRAZY
DEAR CRAZY: If you can find a galloping clergyman, go ahead and have your Western wedding — and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am 35 and have just received my FOURTH divorce. Every woman I married was older than I. (the last one was 14 years older but no one knew it). I seem to get hooked by the same kind of selfish, domineering, bossy type woman every time. All I want is someone who will love me, take care of me and think of me before herself. Is that asking too much? Show me a girl under 35 with those qualifications and I'll marry her.

FOUR-TIME LOSER.
DEAR LOSER: You don't want a wife — you want a mother. When you start to think in terms of what you can GIVE a woman instead of what you can GET, you'll be a man, my son. And only then can you expect a successful marriage. But not until.

THIS SIDE Of The Sun

R. F. "Phat" GRAETTINGER

Statisticians are waiting. Their pencils all sharp. To start tabulating Who's next for the harp.

A week from today, Monday, September 3, is Labor Day when thousands will take to the highways and the byways for one last big summer fling. The byways aren't so bad, but oh, those highways.

It's the final three day holiday of the year if you don't count Christmas which comes on Tuesday so will most likely turn out to be a four day weekend.

IT COULD BE a good time to start thinking about it, what with only four days to go before clogging the highways. The trouble is, too few people will. So Labor Day, a holiday for many of us, won't be for traffic policemen, insurance company and safety council statisticians, ambulance drivers and coroners.

That "can't happen to me" theory will keep them on the job.

SO MANY people take an exaggerated view of their skill at the wheel. They should think like Ernest Marples does. He's Britain's Minister of Transport and in an interview I just read he told reporters:

"Everybody on the road should drive as if the other chap was a complete fool."

Seems they keep statisticians busy over there, too.

A LONG TIME family friend is a responsible executive in a downtown Los Angeles office. She drives the freeways twice a day, five days a week.

"I always drive as if the man in the lane to the right is drunk and the one to the left, a dope addict," she explained, "So far I've been lucky."

And she looked around for some place to knock on wood. This modern office furniture doesn't offer many opportunities.

TOO MANY DRIVERS, too, have the wrong idea of safety belts. They think it's the belt they gulp down "for the road" just before taking to the wheel.

Many others, who are thoughtful enough to equip their cars with safety belts, spoil it all with misplaced optimism.

"I'm only going a couple blocks. Why bother to fasten the darn thing. Too much trouble."

At the first intersection some lame brain runs the light and our man's widow is asking the insurance company about the double indemnity clause.

YOU'VE SEEN these signs Safety councils put up: "Drive carefully — the life you save may be your own."

Most drivers just sniff at that, it doesn't mean them.

But I read in the Ford Times that in Saudi Arabia which is sometimes deemed a backward country, any driver who has an accident resulting in death, is executed.

Over there, that slogan means something.

Palm Springs had new reason to be proud. Zaddie Bunker at the age of 65, received her pilot's license and has the distinction of being the oldest woman flier to solo a plane. She was jubilant when she received word the license had been granted and immediately announced plans for a flying trip to Florida to visit a relative, with stop-overs at many other cities.

VEEP FACES TOUGH TASK

Ralph Kaplan Reports International Affairs

There are areas temporarily neglected under the impact of matters requiring immediate attention which should no longer be forgotten. With this in mind Vice President Lyndon Johnson is currently undertaking a 'fence-mending' trip to Iran, Greece, Turkey, Lebanon and Cyprus.

Defense Secretary McNamara, appearing before the Senate Appropriations Committee on Aug. 22, said that Korea, Formosa, Turkey, Greece, Iran and Pakistan are vital to U.S. security. This was in connection with the contemplated reduction of military assistance programs.

Three of the countries mentioned are included in the Vice President's itinerary and are the main objectives of his visit. Of the five countries to be visited three have communist borders to watch.

Iran Exposed

Iran with its long northern frontier with Russia is the most exposed and the least defended. As an underdeveloped country, facing almost unsurmountable economic problems with expensive defense programs permitting no relaxation, Iran is not going to be an easy task for Lyndon Johnson to explain why the $30 million Iran received last year from the U.S. in defense support aid, will no more be forthcoming.

Instead the clearly defined U.S. development aid must be matched by local economic projects which have been very slow in coming because of the need for reforming a feudalistic economy and a disproportionately high budget for defense against subversion.

Greece Major Problem

Turkey and Iran are members of CENTO alliance and Greece, Turkey and Italy are members of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance, with little or no say in our nuclear deterrent strategy. Turkey's political situation since the takeover by a junta, has been less than stable and when American defense support, currently about $58 million per year, terminates then the economic reaction will reduce Turkey's effectiveness as an important western bulwark against Soviet penetration of the vital Middle East.

Greece is another major problem because America has reduced defense aid and because of the Greeks' strong anti-Yugoslav sentiments. The cut of aid will be particularly ill-received when just across the border communist Yugoslavs reap a veritable harvest of American aid. Soon, Tito will be a guest in the Red House and return with Russian promises of economic aid, making the 'pill' even more bitter to swallow.

Cyprus A Showcase

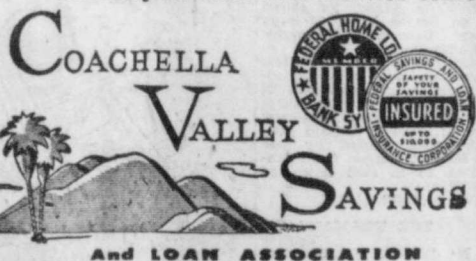

Greece, Turkey and Iran are part of our defense program to 'contain' the Soviet Union and second thoughts may be had when Johnson reports upon his return. Our V.P. will also visit Cyprus with its enchanting and romantic beauty, to see how Greeks and Turks live in peace after years of strife and killing each other.

Lebanon, the remaining Middle East port of call for our traveling Vice President has no common borders with Russia like Iran, is no important military power like Turkey, does not belong to any military alliance but Lebanon has consistently been America's only Arab friend in the Middle East, its Christian majority rendering that small country vulnerable to Nasser-inspired nationalism.

Winding up his two-week mission for peace and understanding, the Vice President and his Lady Bird will stop over in Rome for two days to discuss Italian-American cooperation in the launching of weather observation vehicles in space and a telephone relay project similar to Telstar. Then back home, when the V.P. will report on the problems, the expectations, the hopes and fears of the countries visited. Perhaps there will be another pleasant episode such as the Camel Driver from India, adding the human touch to a world tense under the impact of inhuman drives for conquest.

Angels Bounce Back To Blank Chicago, 4-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Stopping the Angels this season is becoming as frustrating as stomping on an earthworm. Everytime they appear finished the darn things come up wiggling.

Los Angeles lost two hectic games to the New York Yankees last week and then fell behind 4-0 in the third. But the Angels hung on to win that third game, 5-4.

Then the enervated Angels dropped two games to the surging Chicago White Sox. But Sunday, when everyone figured the team was through, the wiggling Angels snapped back to blank Chicago, 4-0.

So, when the Angels left this afternoon on their 15-game road trip—which begins Tuesday night at Kansas City—they'll be only three games away from the first place Yankees, tied for second with Minnesota.

Double Plays Helped

It was an ex-Twins pitcher, Don Lee, who blanked the White Sox

Sunday, while another Lee—Lee Thomas—supplied the batting punch with a two-run triple and a one-run single.

It was an eight-hit shutout for Lee, who gave up at least one White Sox base hit in every inning except the third and the fifth. In the fourth he gave up two.

But he was able to record his second complete-game shutout of the season because he walked only one man and had the support of double plays in the first, second and ninth innings.

Struggling his way to his 11th win of the season, Lee found a way to overcome the eye-stinging and lung-filling smog—something that could make him a million dollars in this city. However he didn't explain how it was done.

"The smog here bothers pitchers," Lee said, "and causes them to run out of gas."

Santa Maria Golfer Cops State Open

SANTA MARIA (UPI)—Ron Letellier of Santa Maria carded a brilliant 63 on the strength of 10 birdies and a 40-foot putt Sunday to win the California State Open Golf Championships.

Letellier totaled 70-69-71-63—273 for 72 holes at the Santa Maria Country Club course to win his nearest competitors.

The Santa Maria ace had 7 of his 10 birdies on the first nine holes, and sank a 40-foot putt on the seventh green. Three of his birdies were from over 20 feet.

Defending champion Duff Lawrence of Sherman Oaks overcame an erratic first round carding of 75 followed that with crisp scores of 66, 69 and 68 to end up with a tie for second place at 278 with Alex Sutton of Hollister.

Ralph Evans of Whittier took sole possession of third place with 71-72-67-81—281.

For an example, he explained Chicago's Ed Fisher had to leave Saturday's game after pitching seven innings because he was gasping for breath.

"Now that I've licked this problem," Lee continued, "I should do a better pitching job here during day games."

Lee Thomas got the Angels rolling with a first-inning triple that drove home Albie Pearson and Billy Moran with none out. After one out Bob Rodgers walked and Leon Wagner popped up to the catcher. Felix Torres singled home Thomas to make the score 3-0, and after losing pitcher Frank Baumann ran the count to two balls and no strikes on Jim Fregosi, Baumann was replaced by Dom Zanni.

Baumann, (6-5) going only two-thirds of an inning and charged with three runs, three hits and three walks, wouldn't say if it was the smog or Angel hitters that plagued him.

Dodgers Clobber N.Y. Mets in Slugfest, 16-5

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Buoyed by Maury Wills' phenomenal base banditry and a reawakened scoring punch, the Los Angeles Dodgers returned to the friendly confines of Chavez Ravine today to prepare for a crucial home stand in which they will host both Cincinnati and San Francisco.

The Dodgers, now leading the National League by 2½ games, rallied from their road trip doldrums Sunday to club New York Mets 16-5 in the Polo Grounds.

Coupled with Saturday's 8-2 win over the Mets, the scores indicated that the sagging Dodger fortunes may be on the upsurge.

Prior to the New York series, Los Angeles even had to scrap it out with their favorite patois—the Philadelphia Phillies—to post a victory. The Dodgers gained a 2-2 split with third place Cincinnati in a four game series, but barely escaped with an even slate.

But the Met games could reassure anybody.

The fumbling New Yorkers committed five errors in Sunday's debacle in which the Dodgers erupted for seven runs in the sixth inning.

And mercurial Maury Wills pilfered three bases to raise his league-leading stolen base total to 72—making him the second best base stealer in modern National League history.

All the Dodgers enjoyed the rout. Frank Howard blasted a 440-foot triple that drove in two runs; Tim Lincecum hit his second home run of the year; and Willie Davis blasted his 21st with two on in the ninth.

Rookie southpaw Pete Richert was credited with the win to run his record to 3-3.

Jim Gilliam and John Roseboro also got into the act by each driving in two runs.

The competition stiffens Tuesday night with the Reds coming to town followed by the Milwaukee Braves and the Giants.

ALMOST PERFECT GAME

Twins Hurler Flings No-Hitter Over K.C.

MINNEAPOLIS—St. PAUL (UPI) — Jack Kralick woke up this morning to find out it wasn't all a dream.

It's a safe bet that the lanky Kralick, who is known as "the nervous man" of the Minnesota Twins, didn't get much sleep Sunday night.

The Michigan State University graduate became the fifth major league hurler to pitch a no-hit, no-run game this season and came within two outs of hurling the first regular season perfect game since 1922. His 1-0 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Sunday moved the Twins to within three games of the New York Yankees.

"I knew I had a perfect game going in the ninth," Kralick said. "Tradition says a pitcher isn't supposed to know when he has a no-hitter or perfect game going, but I knew I hadn't pitched from the stretch all day."

Kralick, who was the mystery man of the Twins' pitching staff this season, said he was more worried about the victory than the perfect game when pinchhitter George Alusik came up in the ninth.

"Alusik is a free-swinger and I figured I'd rather walk him than give him something good to hit," Kralick said. "He fouled off the pitch I wanted him to hit — a high inside fast ball."

The count to Alusik went to 3-2 before he walked on an outside fast ball to become the Athletics' first base runner of the game. Kralick then got pinchhitter Billy Consolo and Bobby Del Greco to foul out to first baseman Vic Power to salvage the no-hitter.

Manager Sam Mele and pitching coach Gordon Maltzberger were impressed with the fact that Kralick relied mostly on fast balls in notching the dream game.

Sunday's victory was Kralick's 10th against eight losses and his first shutout of the season. It was only his fourth complete game in 30 starts.

"I know I'm nervous by nature," said Kralick. "But I can't remember being nervous during the game."

The 23,224 fans couldn't agree with the Youngstown, Ohio, native. They bit their fingernails until the last man was in the record book.
